

Prof. Sonia Mallek
Editor-in-chief of the International Review of Law

Editorial Foreword

Since its launching, the International Review of Law has been keen to publish rigorous research and striving to reflect the solid foundations based on which it is built, encompassing the variety of research topics and the geographical diversity of its authors. This reflects its aspiration to achieve internationalization as an open platform for those passionate about scientific legal research.

This issue embraces research papers in three languages: Arabic, French, and English. The papers address multiple legal systems in line with the journal's vision in contributing to publishing international and comparative research.

- The first paper discusses “Qatar Public Employee’s Disciplinary Guarantees: Between legislation and jurisprudence” by Anas Lamchichi.
- The second analyses “The Price in the Case of Instalment Sales–A Critical Study of Decision No. 81/2023 of the Kuwaiti Minister of Commerce and Industry” by Husain Mohesin Alrashidi.
- The third paper elaborates on “Indigenization, Language, and the Law: The trilogy of Science Advancement in the Arab World” by Asma H. Malkawi & Abdelnaser Z. Hayajneh.
- The fourth highlights the “Role of the Palestinian Banks in Combating Money Laundering under the Israeli Occupation” by Alaa Srour & Mustafa Abdelbaqi.
- The fifth studies “Artificial Intelligence Crimes and Countermeasures: Deepfake Crimes as a Model” by Alaeldin Mansour Maghaireh.
- The sixth endeavors in “Striking a Balance in Terminating Employment Contracts for Technical and Economic Reasons: A Comparative Study between Palestinian and British Law” by Muayad Kamal Hattab.
- The seventh addresses the “The Role of Civilians in Digital Criminal Documentation of Human Rights Violations: A Look at the Situation in Gaza” by Sharefah Ahmad Almuhana.
- The eighth is a “Judicial Review of the Congressional Power to Tax under the U.S. Constitution: Tensions between Framers’ Intent and Imperatives of the Reality” by Jawad Nabhan Salman.
- The ninth discusses the “Legal Comfort, as an Analytical Essay on Certain Legal Techniques” by Chaker Mzoughi.

This issue also includes a distinguished honorary judicial speech by the Honorable James Allsop AC, Former Chief Justice of the Federal Court of Australia at the fifth full meeting of the Standing International Forum of Commercial Courts in Doha on Sunday 21 April 2024, titled “The Spirit of the Judicial Mission and the Importance of International Judicial Dialogue.” with an abstract written by Dr. Andrew Dahdal.
